CACI develops, maintains, and enhances the Navy's Readiness-Based Sparing system, saving over $2 billion and reducing processing time by 20 percent.

Product Lifecycle Management (PLM): By integrating PLM and decision support tools, CACI brings people, processes, and interoperable technologies together into a collaborative decision environment. We support the critical business processes involved in the lifecycle management of products, from requirements through design and sustainment. Our solution delivers robust configuration management using authoritative product data and systems engineering techniques and analysis to determine optimal product support strategies at the lowest lifecycle cost.

Supply Chain Total Solutions and Services: CACI's solutions and services provide real-time, end-to-end control of the supply chain, including the deployment, distribution, and sustainment pipeline. We provide management decision support tools and automatic identification technology for total asset visibility. Our services include forecasting, requirements determination, warehousing and distribution, and readiness-based sparing.

Logistics Operations/Enterprise Support Solutions and Services: CACI's solutions encompass in-service functions of the logistics lifecycle, from acquisition to disposal. These in-service functions enable assets to reach their expected service life, reduce lifecycle maintenance costs, and improve response time – while equipping decision-makers with the tools to optimize readiness. CACI provides software-based readiness systems that gather, analyze, and report readiness information to enhance decision making.

Manpower and Personnel/Training Support Solutions and Services: CACI delivers integrated approaches and products to develop the next-generation military and civilian workforce. We optimize how customers acquire, manage, and sustain talent to meet mission objectives. Our integrated Human Capital Value Stream Methodology is a system-of-systems, technology-enabled solution that produces higher-performing people and organizations.
